SiloSmashers Joins the Project Management Institute-Registered Consultant Program

Company Meets Rigorous PMI Requirements for Entry to the Program

Fairfax, VA – April 12, 2011 – SiloSmashers, Inc., a privately-owned, strategy and technology consulting firm, today announced that they had joined the Project Management Institute (PMI) Registered Consultant Program(RCP). The recently launched RCP offers a directory of “preferred” consulting firms that adhere to strict RCP requirements regarding business ethics and have a documented history of delivering relevant and successful project management consulting services.

PMI is the world’s leading advocacy for project, program, and portfolio management, with globally recognized standards and credentials, an extensive research program, and a vast array of professional development resources. PMI created the Registered Consultant Program to help organizations that need project management assistance, to find the top companies with depth of knowledge and expertise in project management and who demonstrate high ethical standards of honesty, integrity, and confidentiality, in their services delivery.

“Membership in PMI’s Registered Consultant Program signifies SiloSmashers’ genuine commitment to professional superiority in the areas of project, program, and portfolio management, and to making our expert consulting services available to organizations that need our assistance,” said SiloSmashers President Charles Mudd. “SiloSmashers employs a team of industry experts with PMP, and other professional certifications and exceptional skill sets, who leverage the latest tools, resources, and innovations to deliver the highest-quality solutions and services to clients.”

SiloSmashers is an industry-leading strategy, management, and technology consulting firm with depth of knowledge and expertise in; program management, performance management (including business transformation efforts), and information technology (IT) security. The company provides innovative, collaborative business approaches, and proven methodologies that enable customers to break down organizational silos and optimize operational efficiency to achieve peak performance and mission success – today and in the years ahead. www.silosmashers.com
